Contents

Editorial

What Makes a Manuscript Holistic? Revisited and Still Relevant 180
W. Richard Cowling III

Articles

The Dancing Nurses and the Language of the Body: Training Somatic Awareness, Bodily Communication, and Embodied Professional Competence in Nurse Education 182
Helle Winther, Susanne Næsgaard Grøntved, Eva Kold Gravesen, and Ingeborg Ilkjær

Islamic Values and Nursing Practice in Kuwait 195
Carolyn Atkinson

Continuity and Change in Life Engagement Among People With Dementia 205
Kirsti Kuosa, Ingunn Elstad, and Hans Ketil Normann

Support for At-Risk Girls: A School-Based Mental Health Nursing Initiative 228
Pamela Adamshick

Development of a Quantitative Measure of Holistic Nursing Care 238
Elizabeth Kinchen

Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction in Advanced Nursing Practice: A Nonpharmacologic Approach to Health Promotion, Chronic Disease Management, and Symptom Control 247
Hants Williams, Leigh Ann Simmons, and Paula Tanabe

Depression in Older Adults in Primary Care: An Integrative Approach to Care 260
Sheila Lill

Bicultural Straddling Among Immigrant Adolescents: A Concept Analysis 269
Tsui-Sui Annie Kao and Betsy Huang

Although AHNA supports the concepts of holism, it refrains from endorsing specific practitioners, organizations, products, services, or modalities. Advertising in Journal of Holistic Nursing does not imply endorsement by the AHNA. Only qualified educational certificate programs that apply to AHNA and meet specific criteria are recognized as endorsed by the AHNA. A list of AHNA-endorsed programs can be found at www.ahna.org.

Journal of Holistic Nursing is pleased to offer the opportunity to earn continuing nursing education contact hours in each issue. See the CNE activity in this issue for more information on how to earn these credits or visit www.ahna.org for more information.